VGCC: Poised for the Future

A Message from President Randy Parker

Soon after I took over as president of Vance-Granville Community College on Sept. 1, 2004, the college celebrated its 35th anniversary. The first 35 years represent an awesome period of growth and progress from its humble beginnings as Vance County Technical Institute in 1969. VGCC now ranks as the largest rural community college among the 58 schools in the N.C. Community College System. We are the primary source of training and education in Vance, Granville, Franklin and Warren counties to prepare our citizens for employment in today's workforce.

Vance-Granville has achieved its success through the efforts of many leaders, faculty and staff who have had the foresight to recognize the needs of area citizens, to provide them the training necessary to succeed and to plan for future changes in the economy and its evolving workforce.

To prepare our citizens for emerging jobs of the 21st century, we have added a Pharmacy Technology program just in the past few years, and Bioprocess Technology is set to start in Fall 2005. We have increased enrollment in our nursing programs to help alleviate the local and state shortage in health care professionals. Our College Transfer program was recognized this past year as the top college in the state for preparing students for success when they transfer to four-year schools. Also, we were third in the state for the number of GED and Adult High School diplomas awarded.

The task now facing VGCC is to recognize what the future holds and to plan the programs of study that will keep our students competitive when they enter the changing workforce.

We must accomplish this in the face of an economy that is evolving to where we must compete on a global level.

We are hard at work on this task. Within the college, we have formed a Leadership Institute through which we will train our faculty and staff for leadership roles in this global-based education. We are formulating a long-range plan to address the future needs of the college and the students we serve. We have held forums this year in all four counties we serve to get input from leaders in all areas on what their needs are and how VGCC can address those needs.

Our planning continues to be an ongoing process. We sincerely appreciate the strong support through the years of all the people in the counties we serve, and we solicit your continuing support and guidance as we plan to provide the training and educational opportunities necessary to guide our students in the 21st century.

Randy Parker

In 2004-2005 I served as Vance-Granville Community College's president for a couple of months prior to my retirement in August 2004. In my years as president, I was able to see the college continue its tremendous growth and success in preparing area citizens for better jobs and lives. This growth and success was due to a dedicated and talented faculty and staff, and to the wonderful support of the communities the college serves.

Because of the leadership and hard work of the caring people at Vance-Granville Community College, I feel confident it will continue on its path to becoming the best community college in North Carolina. I wish the college all the best.

Presidential Leadership Award Recipients

Each year VGCC's faculty and staff select nominees for the N.C. Community College System's Excellence in Teaching Award and Staff Member of the Year Award, and in 2004 the president of the college began selecting an annual recipient of the Presidential Leadership Award. The 2004-2005 recipients were:

- Angela G. Johnson, program head and instructor for Criminal Justice Technology, who was VGCC's nominee for the Excellence in Teaching Award. She was selected based on her innovations in teaching, unselfish devotion and contributions to her students' success, and her leadership roles both in the classroom and beyond. She has been described by her students as a "friendly and kind instructor," an "instructor who has genuine feeling for all of her students," and one who "makes students glad they decided to attend Vance-Granville." Johnson, who began teaching at VGCC in 1997, graduated Summa Cum Laude with a master's degree from N.C. Central University in 2002.

- Debra D. Hughes, executive assistant to the vice president of finance and operations, who was VGCC's nominee for the Staff Member of the Year Award. She was selected because of her commitment and contributions to her department and the college. She consistently performs above and beyond the call of duty to assist students, faculty and staff and is recognized throughout the college for her exceptional attitude and performance in her duties. Hughes graduated from VGCC in 1996 with an Associate in Applied Science Degree in Micro-Computer Systems and was a member of Phi Theta Kappa, the scholastic honor society of two-year colleges.

- Frederick H. Wilson, Jr., who was selected by President Randy Parker as the winner of the first annual Presidential Leadership Award. Wilson announced in November 2003 his intention to retire from VGCC in 2004 after more than 30 years service. He joined the faculty in 1974 as an instructor in Recreation & Leisure Studies. He held several positions, including department chair of Public Service/Vocational Education and dean of instruction, prior to becoming vice president in February 1999, the position he held until his departure on Oct. 28, 2004.

Native American dancers were among the many acts featured at the annual Cultural Fair, held in Feb. 2005 in the VGCC Civic Center. Students, faculty and staff also enjoyed exhibits and foods representing a variety of nations and cultures.

The Critical Success Factors Report, an annual evaluation released in June by the N.C. Community College System, rates community colleges on how they perform in 12 standards. Vance-Granville met or surpassed 10 of the 12 standards and received a "Superior" rank for the fourth straight year.

The latest performance figures also show that students who transferred to universities in the University of North Carolina system from VGCC's Transfer program ranked highest among the 58 N.C. community colleges in performance after two semesters of university study during the 2003-2004 school year.

Business & Industry

Area businesses and industries turn to VGCC as they seek to grow and expand, confident that they have a reliable resource for specialized training for their employees.

Through New and Expanding Industry Training offered by VGCC's ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT SERVICES DIVISION, Vance-Granville took on six projects, training 1,709 employees in 2004-2005, while Focused Industrial Training served 16 industries and taught 651 trainees.

The SMALL BUSINESS CENTER, designed to provide the small businesses of the community with a focal point for training, education, counseling and referral, offered 28 Small Business and 42 Occupational Extension courses in 2004-2005, with a total of 1,117 participants. In addition, a total of 59 clients used business counseling services.

Also in 2004-2005, the college began offering WORK KEYS assessments to area employers, employees and unemployed persons to measure individuals' job skills and to match them to available jobs. Key Train classes in the COMPUTER CENTER offer individualized instruction to prepare individuals for assessments in skill areas in which they need assistance.

Kerr-Tar Hub Project

State and local economic development officials announced in early 2005 that the first phase of the Kerr-Tar Hub Project, an innovative technology center and industrial/business park, will be situated on 1,000 acres adjacent to VGCC's main campus, located on I-85 between Henderson and Oxford.

The convenient location of the hub will provide increased opportunities for VGCC to offer on-site and customized training for businesses and industries.

Facilities for Community Use

A hub of activity for the community, Vance-Granville provides a centralized location for gathering.

On the main campus, a Civic Center, conference rooms and auditorium provide meeting space in excess of 10,000 square feet for exhibitions, banquets, trade shows, job fairs, concerts and special events.

In 2004-2005, more than 30,000 people outside the college attended activities in the Civic Center, and an additional 5,000 individuals used other college facilities.

Partnerships

Sue Grissom (left), VGCC's director of basic skills, Leo Kelly (center), VGCC's dean of adult basic education, and the Rev. Rick Brand of First Presbyterian Church of Henderson display one of the banners used to advertise the literacy classes that the college and the church are co-sponsoring.

Strategic Plans for the Future

In 2005 VGCC hosted Strategic Initiative Forums in all four counties it serves to gather community input concerning the economic, social, cultural and educational needs of each county and ways the college can incorporate these needs into its educational mission.

Information gathered at these forums will be utilized by college officials as they develop a Long-Range Strategic Plan to help prepare area communities for the new knowledge-based global economy and market-place.

Community input recorded at four Strategic Initiative forums in 2005 will help VGCC develop long-range strategic plans.

Growth

2004-2005 proved to be a busy and productive year for construction projects on the campuses of Vance-Granville Community College.

When the fiscal year began on July 1, 2004, the roof was in place and the 15,212-square-foot classroom building at the Warren County Campus in Warrenton was well under way and on schedule for completion by the end of the year. The 10,000-square-foot addition to the Student Services Building on the main campus was about 35-percent complete.

In September 2004, $2.3 million in contracts were awarded for a 16,880-square-foot, two-story classroom building at the Franklin County Campus at Louisburg.

Construction of the Warren Campus classroom building was completed in November 2004. The building houses three classrooms, four computer labs, a Nursing Assistant classroom and lab, and a meeting-seminar room for college and community use.

The beginning of 2005 saw Spring Semester classes begin in the new Warren Campus classroom building. The addition to the Student Services Building was completed, and staff began moving in. This project consolidated all student services in one building, making it more convenient for students and more efficient for staff.

When March arrived, footings had been dug for the Franklin County classroom building, and erection of the structural steel began. Construction documents for a 20,000-square-foot, two story addition to the South Campus in Granville County were submitted in March to the State Construction Office for approval.

By May 2005, all structural steel was up and the roof was installed on the Franklin Campus building, and brick work and window installation had begun.

Exterior work was completed in June, and interior wall installation and painting were under way at the Franklin Campus, a project that was well ahead of schedule. Also, design drawings were completed for a Bioprocess Technology lab in the lower level of the Student Services Building on the main campus.

Construction began in March 2005, and progressed quickly throughout the spring, on a new 16,880-square-foot classroom building at Franklin Campus.

Thanks to various resources and contributions to Vance-Granville Community College's Endowment and Scholarship Fund, financial support is available to many of our students with financial need.

As of June 30, 2005, the college Endowment Fund had 290 endowed scholarships for full-time students, as listed in three categories on the following pages.

One of the largest community college scholarship funds in the state, VGCC's Endowment and Scholarship Fund now exceeds $5 million in assets, including funds in trusts naming the college as beneficiary.

In 2004, 287 full-time students received Endowment and Scholarship Fund awards totaling $175,125, and an additional 200 part-time students received scholarships totaling $52,445. Eleven students received corporate and private annual scholarships totaling $6,000.

Nearly 4,700 scholarships have been awarded to deserving students through the fund since its reactivation in 1982.

As evidenced by the Endowment and Scholarship Fund and other community support, there are many who believe in the college as a vital educational force and who have translated those beliefs into support and action.

Levels of giving for the VGCC Endowment and Scholarship Fund have been established as follows, and contributors will be listed in future reports.

Friends' Circle: Up to $249
Honors' Circle:..... $250-$499
Scholar Circle: $500-$999
Dean's Circle: $1,000-$2,499

VGCC opened doors for me through grants and scholarships, and I try to impress upon my clients that they can go through those doors. And once they cross that bridge to independence, it feels so good.

Statewide Study Shows VGCC Benefits Students, Local Economy

CCbenefits Inc. reported the results of a study it did on the socioeconomic benefits generated by all 58 of the community colleges in North Carolina, including Vance-Granville. Featured here are the highlights of the study.

How Students Benefit

VGCC enriches the lives of students and increases their lifetime incomes. For every $1.00 the student invests in a VGCC education, he or she will receive approximately $10.00 in higher future earnings over the next 30 years.

- ✓ The payback period (time needed to recover all costs) is 4.4 years.
- ✓ For every year they attend full time beyond the associate's degree, they will earn an additional $3,987 per year.
- ✓ VGCC students will enjoy a 34.6% rate of return on their investments of time and money, which compares favorably with the returns on other investments, e.g., the long-term return on U.S. stocks and bonds.

How Taxpayers Benefit

VGCC benefits taxpayers by reducing the demand for taxpayer-supported social services. VGCC provides a benefit/cost ratio of 3.1, i.e., every dollar of state or local tax money invested in VGCC today returns $3.10, a 16.8% rate of return with a 7.8-year payback period.

- ✓ Improved Health: Benefits from reduced health-related absenteeism, smoking and alcohol abuse for better-educated workers total $906,000 annually.
- ✓ Reduced Crime: Fewer incarcerations and reduced victims costs result in annual savings of $2,166,300.
- ✓ Reduced Welfare/Unemployment: 293 fewer people on welfare and 182 fewer drawing unemployment amounts to annual savings of $2.8 million.

Total socioeconomic savings are about $5.9 million per year.

How Our Economy Benefits

VGCC contributes to the vitality of both our local and state economies.

Service Area Operations

- ✓ Approximately 89% of the students who attend VGCC stay in the region after they leave college and contribute to the local economy. Their continued contribution is measured after accounting for out-migration, retirement and death. After leaving the college, the average VGCC student will spend 30 years in the workforce.
- ✓ Each year students leave VGCC and join or rejoin the local workforce. Their added skills translate to higher earnings and more robust VGCC Service Area Economy.

College Operations Spending

- ✓ 580 VGCC full- and part-time salaries and income spent in local region amount to $21.7 million annually.

Past Student Productivity Efforts

- ✓ Direct and indirect earnings of past VGCC students total $196.1 million.

Total Earnings in College Service Area

- ✓ The defined economic region generated $1.8 billion in total earnings in FY 2003. Of this, the college operations spending and past student productivity accounted for $217.9 million, or 11.9 % of all regional earnings.
